Tourists Want Picture With Duke's Surf Board

Latest Fad is Pose in Front of Board Owned By World's Champion Swimmer—Many Tourists Send Photographs to Mainland—Great Publicity Move, Says Taylor—Stanford Girl Caught Posing for Picture—Says Duke Best Natator

Honolulu and Hawaii have boasted of many publicity moves that have brought the attention of the tourists to the islands. They have been written in song and story, in words like Mark Twain's prose poem and expressions such as the Isles of Peace and the Isles of Perpetual Summer. Then, again, the climate, surfing, Volcano, ukulele, polo, swimming and hundreds of other things have added to the stack of publicity that have been given the islands.

The latest thing in the line of fad for tourists is to have their pictures taken standing up in front of Duke Kahamoku's surfboard. Duke, being champion of the world, is better known to tourists than any other citizen of Hawaii. They have heard of his plaudits from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and all want something to bring back to their friends to show that they have not neglected the aquatic feature of their stay.

A Girl Started It

One day Duke left his surfboard resting against the pier in front of the Moana and a young lady, a tourist, walked up to the board while another one snapped her posing in front of the wave rider.

This was only the beginning, and before the day was over a score of tourists had lined up alongside the board and had their pictures snapped in many ways. Following this Duke was besieged by tourists to allow them to pose in front of the board and hundreds have been photographed in the past week.

Boost, Says Taylor
These photographs will be mailed to friends throughout the mainland and will be an incentive to attract visitors to the beach at Waikiki. When asked about the publicity end of it, Albert P. Taylor, secretary of the Hawaii Promotion Committee, said that it was one of the best plans to bring attention to the islands that could be obtained.

Duke looked at the proposition in a strange way at first, but after scores of tourists had asked his consent he agreed to the plan and any day one may see pretty young ladies gathered around the board, taking photographs of each other. Of late Duke has been doing more swimming than surfboard riding, as his board has been in constant use. It isn't Duke's nature to begrudge the visitors any pleasure they may have in being snapped in front of the board which is marked "Duke," so it is expected that in the future he will be kept busy with more requests for his board and will continue his training for the world's championship races in September.

for her friend. Miss Bell has many friends in Honolulu and during her three months' visit here has become adept both at swimming and diving. She has taken a deep interest in swimming and has followed the records of the leading natators of the country.

Miss Bell, in company with a number of other young ladies, expect to remain here for some time and may perhaps prolong their visit until after the big September swimming meet. Miss Bell is confident that Duke will win all three events in the coming meet and predicts new records in both the 100 and 220-yard swims. Naturally, being a Stanford girl, she does not believe that Ludy Langer of the University of California can wig from the world's champion.

HALL AND BLISS HAVE OFFERS TO JOIN COASTERS

Santa Clara Boys Who Made Good Showing Here May Play in Coast League

No baseball player ever leaves Honolulu without writing to Ed Nell, who is known from Weed to San Diego as one of the most popular players who ever threw a ball at an umpire. Ed was at one time known as "King of the Bushes," and although he has been supplanted by the players still keep in touch with him.

Ed has just received a number of letters from the baseball players who were here with Santa Clara and the news that Roy Bliss has been signed by Blankenship of Salt Lake will be well received by the fans here. Bliss was not in form, but if Gay had allowed him to show his best would have made a much better record.

Hall Offered Boost

Both Ed Nell and Bert Hushaw have received word that "Hira" Hall, the popular catcher, had been offered contracts with Portland and San Francisco. This boy looked like a million dollars down here, and should make a decided hit in Coast League circles. He is a hard worker, good thrower and a good hitter, and the fans of Honolulu will surely pull for him to make good. The work of Hall and Milburn will not soon be forgotten despite the sorry showing of Gay's squad.

Bill Inman has also written to Ed telling him about the fortunes and losses of the Chinese Travelers. Bill states that the boys are going good now, and remarked that Doty was playing a great fielding game but not hitting to form. Bill is taking his regular turn in the box and playing in the outfield.

The Latest Fad

KNIGHT FALLS ON 'BLONDY' AND I TEAM WINS GAME

Knight Wins His Own Game With Homer and Three Singles; 28 Strikeouts

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
FORT SHAFER, Aug. 15.—The only company in the post that did not seem to miss the 32nd Infantry today was I Company of the 2nd Infantry, and the way they went after the Engineers in a ball game this P. M. showed a lack of regret that was pathetic for the Engineers.

The new C Company of the "Intellectual Corps" was badly mixed, due to a change of company, and it did not display the vigor and vim of I Company. Engineers, albeit most of the faces were very familiar. The game was a snappy, rappy one, and was surrendered by the Engineers to I Company of the Infantry to the tune of 5 to 2 because the Engineers liked I Company's name—old recollections: I Knight of I Company sharpshooters was at his best, not only on the mound but also with the willow, as he cracked out a homer to show "Blondy" Williams the way a 12-inch projectile sounds at Fort Ruger these days; but not satisfied with that unusual feat or skill, he hit the ball in the eighth and "lost it in the subway" near the rice patches of deep rightfield and they looked for the ball all night with lanterns.

There were numerous bootlets, bingles and bungles amounting to two errors for the "pick and shovel" contingent and four errors for the "hikers," but there were three circus plays as well. McGavin in the first played an absolutely faultless bunt, which gave him the right of way to the initial sack; Corporal Ralls in the second lining made a hair-raising catch with his mitt, but the ball dropped out of the glove while he had both feet off the ground, and he caught it with his bare right hand while the stands rocked with cheers, etc., and again in the fifth inning Kieveler on third base made a sensational stop of a hard drive and followed it with a perfect throw to the first bag. More cheers! Stellar plays! The reason the Engineers lost was because "Blondy" would get thinking about the glories of being a "tip top man" in a company, and in the third inning for example he let I Company have three hits. He felt so visionary that when he did come back to earth the balls he threw were equally high minded, and he did like to make a hit with at least three of the batters. Both pitchers were about equal, however, striking out each 14 men and each allowing six hits, and as the errors sized up 1 to 2, the batting of I Company really won the game.

The exhibition was an excellent one to witness, but as it was not generally known that the game was to be played, the attendance was small. But the rooters were true to the core and they applauded the sizzling hits and the three ring plays to the echo.

Knight really captured his own game for with four times to the bat he cracked out two busehits and a home pass, while Ralls helped with a home pass, and Kieveler helped with a home pass, and Kieveler helped with a home pass.

The series will continue and there ought to be about 18 games still on tap to sunburn the fans and tighten their vocal instruments.

SHE SWIPED HER DADDY'S AWNING TO MAKE A SKIRT

So many young ladies of Honolulu have been wearing the skirts of stripes that it will not do a bit of harm. Some look good and wide and some look wide and good. Nevertheless this selection from the "Curse of the Breaking Heart" may apply at Waikiki, at Kapiolani Park or Fort Street. Mr. Leader please sound your A. Same chord as "Breaking Heart" and "Old Titanic."

You stole your fathers awning, child, I hope you're satisfied. You dragged the cover from the store. You're daddy nearly died. You sewed the lining into a mess. You're poor old dad is hurt. I know its wrong, that's why this song is a tale of a home-made skirt. It is rumored that the Honolulu's will have new uniforms made out of awning material. Hope they are not up in the air all the time.—By Lulu fan.

Nature Baffles Science!

THE dumbest oyster can make a better pearl than the brightest man. The oyster uses Nature's methods.

NATURE says smoking tobacco is at its best after two years' curing.

There may be quicker ways and cheaper ways to cure tobacco. But we believe in Nature's way—the VELVET way—two years' mellowing in big wooden hogsheads.

Just fill a pipe with VELVET, and draw in the cool, mild smoke that's so fragrant and rich that—but what is the use of trying to describe a taste?

Take our word for VELVET, long enough to try a pipeful, and you won't need to take anybody's word after that.
